Rapid On-Site Response Delivers a $360K Annual Win for a Hospital System

From urgent operational strain to an on-time, on-budget rollout and $360,000 in annual savings.

Executive Summary

A hospital system faced urgent operational issues, a pending system rollout, and mounting overtime costs. Whitehat mobilized staff on-site within 8 hours and began resolving problems immediately. The full hospital system rollout was completed on time and on budget, saving the organization over $360,000 annually across three years.

Challenges

- Urgent operational issues demanded immediate intervention the internal team could not resolve on its own timeline.
- A pending hospital system rollout risked slipping past its schedule and exceeding its allocated budget.
- Elevated overtime spending signaled staffing inefficiency and unsustainable labor costs across operations.
- Overall cost pressure made the existing support arrangement expensive and difficult to justify long term.

Solutions

- Delivered end-to-end execution of a full hospital system rollout across the healthcare environment.
- Provided on-the-ground expertise that supplemented internal capacity during a critical window.
- Introduced operational improvements that reduced the organization's dependence on overtime labor.

“Whitehat had staff on the ground within 8 hours of our call and immediately began solving our issues. They completed a full hospital system rollout on time and on budget. Hiring Whitehat saved the healthcare system over $360,000 dollars annually over three years. The drop in overtime alone saved the organization $87,000 annually.”
